BIOGRAPHY OVERVIEW

LaCherie Armour is an accomplished artistic writer, truth researcher, faith teacher, author, and strategic change leader called to unite rigorous analysis with biblical truth, compassionate service, and purpose-driven leadership. She examines complex information, discerns meaningful patterns, and translates evidence into clear, faith-informed insight. Drawing on lived experience, public service, organizational leadership, and spiritual conviction, she equips others to pursue truth, healing, and transformation. Her journey through adversity has shaped a ministry voice grounded in resilience, wisdom, transparency, and redemptive purpose.

PUBLIC SERVICE & ADVOCACY

With 25 years of service at the California Department of Motor Vehicles, LaCherie brings deep institutional knowledge, operational perspective, and a steadfast commitment to serving people with integrity. As a former advocate for SEIU Local 1000, she championed equitable treatment, strengthened employee voice, and stands with individuals navigating complex workplace concerns. Her advocacy reflects a ministry of service rooted in compassion, accountability, justice, and the dignity of every person.

AUTHORSHIP & MINISTRY

Her two-decade journey of healing and spiritual restoration culminated in the publication of her 2016 book, Emotionally Unstable: Growing Up Without My Daddy. Through authorship, faith instruction, truth-centered dialogue, and literary artistry, she transforms personal testimony and disciplined research into ministry teaching that encourages reflection, inner healing, spiritual growth, and renewed purpose.

EXECUTIVE FOUNDER & VISION

As Executive Founder of The Write Place Online LLC, LaCherie leads a faith-centered, purpose-driven enterprise at the intersection of writing, research, ministry, and strategic transformation. Through literary collaboration, independent research, public speaking, and mission-aligned services and products, she is building a trusted platform that equips people to encounter truth, gain understanding, and move forward in healing and purpose. As “the write source,” she delivers transparent, research-informed, and faith-centered insight that makes truth accessible, relevant, and transformative for the lives she is called to serve. She is building an ecosystem for modern day ministers and change-leaders who do not lead from the center, nor from the top. But move with people, not above them and build circles, not ladders.
